

2018/2019 MCC Events

Recognizing and Responding to Domestic Violence 9:00am – 12:00pm
Library, Center CampusSeptember 21, 2018
Macomb Room, J Building, South Campus January 18, 2019

This program, part of a project started in 2009 by the Macomb Community Domestic Violence Council (MCDVC), teaches how to recognize and respond to domestic violence. Participants get the skills to support survivors and provide interpersonal education in their personal or professional lives about domestic violence.

Organizing to Prevent Domestic and Sexual Violence 9:00am – 12:00pm
UC1, Center CampusOctober 12, 2018
Macomb Room, J Building, South CampusFebruary 1, 2019

In this highly interactive workshop, participants will use community organizing tools to develop a plan of action to promote healthy relationships and prevent domestic/sexual violence. By building on the important work in this arena already happening at MCC, and by bringing new ideas to the table, participants will create social change objectives. At the end of the meeting, participants will commit to action on changing MCC campus community norms and institutional practices.

Healthy Relationships, Healthy Communities 9:00am – 12:00pm
UC1, Center Campus November 2, 2018
Macomb Room, J Building, South CampusApril 12, 2019

This seminar from the Macomb Community Domestic Violence Council (MCDVC) discusses the skills needed to have healthy, safe, and fair relationships in our personal and professional lives; and how we create communities that support them. Participants will be able to identify and practice healthy relationship skills such as negotiation and conflict management.

Consent 9:00am – 12:00pm
UC1, Center CampusDecember 7, 2018
Macomb Room, J Building, South Campus May 3, 2019

Consent has become a buzzword for those seeking to address sexual assault on campus and in the larger community. But what does it mean? How does it work? Why is everyone so confused about consent? Through a workshop approach, we will examine the concept of consent together through practical examples and skill development. Participants can expect to deepen their own knowledge of consent and walk away with strategies to better practice consent in their own lives.
